Email Editor yang meminta penulis untuk merevisi artikel berdasarkan catatan reviewer:

Cover Letter sebagai pengantar revisi:

Dear Editors

The author is very grateful for being given the opportunity to revise the article submitted to Studia Islamika. The constructive feedbacks from the respective reviewers guided the author to make necessary revisions. I have responded to each query and note from the reviewers in details, and made some improvement based on their feedback. Therefore, this article is now much better than the previous manuscript submitted to the journal. The author would be much appreciative if this article can eventually be published in Journal of Studia Islamika. I am gladly looking forward to hearing from you.

Regards,

Kadri

Resposn to Reviewer

1. The number of words in the abstract is no more than 150 words. The abstract has been revised in that the purposes of the study have been explicitly stated including explaining the concept of “the empowerment of Inclusive Islam” and “the promotion of inclusive Islam” as the main foci of the research
2. The total number of words in this article are no more than 10.000 words.
3. All contents of the “introduction” section have been replaced by emphasizing on the two foci of the study, namely: strengthening and promoting the inclusive islam, and mentioning the research questions guided the study.
4. The sentences containing the “claims” have been omitted. The omission, however, does not undermine the content of the article.
5. The identity of the respondents cited in the manuscript has been explicated.
6. The statement referring to “jumping conclusion” has been omitted, which does not undermined the flow of the article.
7. This article has added other eight new references to theoretically support the arguments taken from previous studies. The citations of concepts and theories are aimed to justify the claims made in this article.
8. The content in the conclusion section has been rewritten with reference to the feedbacks given by the respective reviewers.

FINDINGS PRESENTATION
It's quite clear and well presented. My advice is to present the ethnographic data as well, not only the interview from the informants. The social status of each informant is also important to explain who are they, why they are chosen, why not others, what is their position, and how important are they in this topic

IMPLICATIONS FOR UNDERSTANDING ISLAM IN INDONESIA AND SOUTHEAST ASIA
The topic is important for understanding Islam in Lombok. Islam in the region is still understudied, and this article seeks to fill the gap

TECHNICAL WRITING
The overall outlook of the article's technical writing is sound and quite well presented

Artikel terpublikasi:

The screenshot shows the article page for 'Religion and Tourism: Promoting Inclusive Islam in Lombok Island, Indonesia' by Kadri Kadri. The abstract reads: "This article explores the empowerment and promotion of Inclusive Islam in the tourist island of Gili Trawangan, Lombok, Indonesia. The findings of this qualitative inquiry show that the Muslim community in Gili Trawangan promote inclusive Islam values through the intensification of Islamic education for children, preaching, and the empowerment of local norms based on Islamic values. Inclusive Islam was promoted indirectly through the implementation of tolerant Islamic teachings – without undermining or being undermined by the presence of tourist activities in the region – basing cultural events on Islam for tourism purposes, and involving the mosque in the tourism business. This article argues that tolerance as one of the characteristics of inclusive Islam is not enough to be taught through formal and non-formal education but needs to be maintained through social and economic activities. Therefore, this study highlights the benefits of maintaining inclusive Islam traditions in tourist destinations for religious and economic purposes."
